

CHILD & YOUTH
ADVOCACY
CENTRE
of Kelowna

SEXUAL ABUSE INTERVENTION PROGRAM (SAIP)

PURPOSE

The Sexual Abuse Intervention Program (SAIP) is a specialized mental health service within the Resilient Families Program at the Child & Youth Advocacy Centre of Kelowna. SAIP provides voluntary, evidence-based support to children and youth under 19 who have experienced sexual abuse, as well as their non-offending parents and caregivers, in order to reduce the impacts of trauma, strengthen resilience, and promote connection and wellbeing.

REFERRALS

Anyone can make a referral. Referrals can be submitted by youth, parents or caregivers, professionals, or community members.

1

DOWNLOAD REFERRAL FORM

2

Once completed, email the form to SAIPreferral@CYACKelowna.com.

There is no cost to access this service. Involvement with the Ministry of Children and Family Development (MCFD) or an active file with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) is not required.

CONFIDENTIALITY

All information shared through the referral process is kept confidential and is accessed only by staff involved in reviewing referrals and providing services. Information may be shared with other professionals involved in your care when appropriate and with your consent, or as required by law.

Funding for SAIP is provided by the Province of British Columbia.

